The Second Ice Carnival.

In the early part of last week, the poster announcing the Second Ice Carnival, appeared, with the following cheerful sentiment printed on it: "If at first you don't succeed, try, try again." Owing to the favorableness of the weather, the second event was much more enjoyable than the first. The band appeared this time, and furnished excellent music, the ice was passably good, and the starlight and temperature ideal. The occasion lost some of its jollity, owing to the fact that it was a repetition, but everything considered, the event was most successful. Next year it should be the aim of the managers to furnish more light. The red and blue, and the search lights marking the tracks, were sadly missed at both carnivals, this year. '02

On Wednesday afternoon, February 12, an athletic meeting was held to consider two new amendments to the Athletic Association constitution, proposed by the Student Government Association. All former members of the Association and members elect were allowed to vote. The amendments were unanimously adopted.

COLLEGE NOTES

At a recent meeting of the trustees of Wellesley College, several changes were made in the faculty body.

Miss Susan M. Hallowell, professor of botany for the past twenty-seven years, has tendered her resignation, which is accepted with grateful recognition of her long and efficient service. When the college was opened, Miss Hallowell was made professor of natural history, the appointment being soon after changed to that of botany, a subject in which Wellesley has always stood preëminent. Professor Hallowell's retirement withdraws from the faculty ranks the last member of the faculty who served in the opening year of 1875. Her connection with the college having been so extended and valuable, it is hoped that she will accept the position of professor emeritus, which is tendered her. Miss Clara E. Cummings, associate professor of botany, is appointed to the temporary charge of the department.

Other appointments made at the meeting are those of Miss A. B. Hawes, as professor of Latin. Miss Hawes having been at the head of the department since the resignation of Professor Lord.

Miss Alice Walton, of the same department, was promoted from instructor to associate professor.

Miss Elizabeth K. Kendall was made professor of history in the single department created two years ago by the division of the history and economics department. Miss Coman, who was at that time made professor of economics, will go abroad next year on sabbatical leave. Miss Montague, associate professor of Greek, is also granted leave of absence for a year.

Mrs. Martha Foote Crow, formerly teacher of history in the college, now Dean of Northwestern University, Evanston, Ill., visited the college the past week. She was the guest of Dean Pendleton, Tuesday evening. Dr. Bowen invited the literature department to meet her at luncheon, on Wednesday, and Wednesday evening Professor Whiting gave a reception for her at Fiske Cottage.

M. Hughes Le Roux, the Cercle Français lecturer, in the James H. Hyde course, at Harvard, this year, delivered a lecture in College Hall Chapel, last Monday evening, before a large and attentive audience. Mlle. Schaeys, head of the French Department, introduced the speaker. The subject of the lecture was "Daudet comme peintre de la France provinciale du Midi." After the lecture, a reception was held in the faculty parlor in honor of M. le Roux.

Now that it is definitely settled that we are to have an intercollegiate debate, can we not go a step further in the right direction, and have a Junior Promenade? Until now, Wellesley has kept too much to itself. it has not had enough in common with other colleges. The debate with Vassar will help greatly to do away with the reputation of exclusiveness which Wellesley has, a Junior Prom would help even more. It is unnecessary to speak of men's colleges —we all know that every one of them has a Prom. But if Smith, Vassar and Bryn Mawr can have a Prom, why cannot Wellesley? The same objections that have been brought to bear before are being urged again this year. It is said that the expense will be too great, but a committee has investigated that matter, and has found that if only one-half the Juniors support the Prom, a tax of $1.50 will cover the expenses, and, surely, that is not too much. It is said, besides, that there is no suitable place for the dance, but the same committee is confident, that if College Hall dining-room is impossible—and the committee hopes that it is not—the Barn will serve the purpose. The Green rooms can be made into very attractive dressing-rooms, and refreshments can be served from the court at the side. But the objection that is most strongly urged, is that, in all probability, there would be men who would come to such a dance whom we would not care to meet or to know. Surely, no self-respecting girl would ask a man to come to a dance, unless she knew him fairly well, at least. And, besides, it would not mean that we should meet promiscuous men. We should meet only the friends of our college friends, whom we should be willing to meet at any time. The objection from that quarter ought not to be serious enough to prove an obstacle, and we hope that the acceptance of Vassar's challenge will soon be followed by the good news that we are to have a Junior Prom. 1903.

NOTES.

On Saturday afternoon, February 15, at 3.20, in College Hall Chapel, Miss Olive Davis gave the third of a series of lectures on Domestic Science.

On Valentine's night, February 14th, the Court of Revels provided an impromptu celebration of the day at the Barn. King Cole's Pie and "stunts," done by individual girls, made up the evening's programme. Dancing afterwards, completed the entertainment.

The second Glee Club concert, will be on Monday evening, February 24. For this concert the tickets were sold irrespective of class rank. As a consequence, no written orders were received. Judging from the long line of girls, waiting to buy tickets, at the different office hours for both concerts, the clubs need have no fear of a small audience at either event.

Miss Agnes Hill, General Secretary of the Y. W. C. A. in India, spoke of her work last Sunday afternoon in the Faculty Parlor. All members of the Christian Association and members of the Bible Mission study classes were invited to be present.

There will be a social meeting for members of the Graduate Club, Friday night, February 21.

Professor George H. Palmer of Harvard University filled the college pulpit on Sunday morning.

Miss May Stone, Wellesley '84-'87, spoke in College Hall Chapel, last Sunday night, on social settlement work, which she is doing among the mountaineers of Kentucky. For the past three summers, the Kentucky Federation of Women's Clubs has been interested in this work, and Miss Stone has been foremost in its advancement.

The work has been carried on in several of the most remote counties of Eastern Kentucky, fifty or sixty miles from a railroad.

The Woman's Christian Temperance Union of Kentucky is planning to establish a Christian Social Settlement and Industrial School, in one of these remote places. More than half the required amount has been raised for the undertaking, and Miss Stone hopes to secure the balance during her eastern trip.

On last Thursday afternoon, February 13, from 3.30 to 5.30, another college reception was held in Stone Hall parlor. All members of the Faculty, Seniors and Sophomores are invited to attend these receptions.

On Monday afternoon, February 17, from 5 until 6 Miss Olive Davis and Miss Margaret Jackson, were "at home," at Wilder Hall.

The Phi Sigma Society has sent out invitations for February 24th, at half-after four, to meet Miss Josephine Preston Peabody.

Friday evening, February 14, Miss Gamble entertained at her home in the Village, in honor of her mother, whist furnishing the amusement of the evening.

On Saturday evening, March 8, the Harvard Glee, Mandolin and Banjo Clubs, will give a concert in the Town Hall of Wellesley. The proceeds of this concert are for the Wellesley Golf Club.

Mary B. Jenkins, '03, spent a few days in Scranton, Pa., with her father, before the opening of the new semester.

Saidee Barrett, '03, attended the Junior Prom. at Princeton, last week.

The Bijou Opera Company is presenting two Italian operas, this week, with the assistance of Mlle. Frida Ricci, again, in "Lucia."

Miss Lane has returned to the company, and has the leading role in "Il Trovatore." "Il Trovatore," is to be given Friday evening, and Saturday matinee, and "Lucia," Thursday and Saturday evening.

LIBRARY REGULATIONS.

During the past week, library manuals were sent through the resident mail, to all the college students. For convenience of ready reference and for other people whom the resident mail may not have reached, the COLLEGE NEWS prints a copy of the circular.

Wellesley College Library Manual 1902.

†RULES AND REGULATIONS.

No deviation from these rules will be allowed except by vote of the Library Committee on written petition. Ignorance of the rules will excuse no one from penalties attached to their violation.

1. The Library of the College includes the General Library, the Departmental libraries of Science and Art, and the Branch libraries, Sociology, Philosophy, Pedagogy, the Missionary library, and the Gertrude library for Biblical study.

Branch and Departmental libraries are governed by the rules and regulations of the College Library, except such as relate to hours of opening and hours for charging books in the libraries of Science and Art.

2. The General Library and Branch libraries will be open on Sundays from 9 to 11, A.M., and from 2 to 6, P.M.; on other days from 8, A.M., to 9.30, P.M., holidays included.

LOANS.

1. Books drawn from the library must be charged and cancelled by a library attendant.

2. The hours for charging books are from 9 to 11, A.M., 4 to 5.30, and 7.30 to 9, P.M., Sundays, holidays and vacations excepted.

3. Two volumes may be drawn at a time for two weeks, or for a shorter time, or for the Christmas and Easter vacations, at the discretion of the librarian, subject to recall for class use.

4. Books reserved for class use may be drawn for over night (9, P.M., to 8.15, A.M.), and on Saturday from 4, P.M., to 9, A.M., Monday.

5. Students are permitted to register in advance for books.

6. All books drawn from the library must be returned to the Librarian's Desk.

7. Books drawn by students from the Branch libraries, Sociology, Philosophy, Pedagogy, Missionary and Gertrude library for Bible study, must be charged by an attendant in the General Library. Books in the Departmental libraries of Science and Art will be charged by an officer of the respective departments, at hours fixed by the department.

RESTRICTED BOOKS.

1. The following books are restricted from circulation:

(1) Books of the Durant Collection forming the original bequest to the library, and entered under the accession numbers 1 to 8,000.

(2) Reference works, such as Cyclopaedias, Atlases and Dictionaries.

(3) Bound periodicals, and all books which are rare, costly, or unsuited for circulation.

(4) The latest number of unbound periodicals.

(5) Books to which classes have been referred.

2. Restricted books may be drawn for use on Special Topics or papers. The number of books that may be drawn and the time they may be kept is at the discretion of the librarian.

RECALLS.

1. The librarian will recall, on request, books drawn for personal use by instructors, officers or students, after two weeks from date of charging.

2. All books needed for class work are subject to immediate recall, and must be returned within twenty-four hours after receipt of notice.

FINES.

1. A fine of 25 cents per day is imposed on all reserved books, and those recalled for class use, not returned on time.

2. Five cents per day will be charged for all other books overdue.

3. An unpaid fine cancels the privilege of drawing books.

RENEWALS.

1. Loans may be renewed for one week at the discretion of the librarian.

2. Loans may be renewed by mail by sending the number of the book to the librarian.

LOSSES AND DEFACEMENTS.

1. No borrower shall write in or mark a book belonging to the library, turn down leaves or in any way deface the same. Tracing is forbidden, except by special permission of the librarian. Defacement of books of papers will be fined from 50 cents to the expense involved in replacing the work by a new copy.

2. A book not returned after one month's notice will be considered lost, and will be replaced at the borrower's expense.
